“ Charlie McLendon loved his Lord and Savior, the Lord Jesus Christ, and in my observation happily served him for many, many years. He was quite an interesting character in the best sense of that expression. He could be in a very serious conversation regarding spiritual matters, or discuss serious aspects of current events, discuss the topics of religious liberty, or enter into issues of government, history, philosophy and such, or design an insurance portfolio for a church denomination, or disappear for six weeks or so to be Santa Claus to a thousand kids during the Christmas season. I am not sure in absolute terms, but I do not believe there was anyone else quite like him among the people the great and living God made in his generation.

I met him because he had designed a set of insurance policies to serve the Presbyterian Church in America at a time when very few wanted to take on that kind of task. The system he set up has been tweaked a little in the flow of time as changes came (like the need for cyber insurance), but the basic plan is still in place and is serving the church now.

I along with many others are sorry for his passing and I am sure family and friends who loved him miss him and grieve the loss. But I am glad for his life and faith, and I trust he is by the grace and love of God now with his Redeemer, the Lord Jesus Christ, in that far, far better place.

May God, our heavenly Father, by his Holy Spirit comfort and bless all who miss his presence.

“ I, like many others, believe Charlie embodied the wonderful attributes of Santa. He was kind, jovial and a great listener. More than just becoming Santa, Charlie used the opportunity as the giver of gifts to point others to the Giver of life. The true essence of who he was was firmly established in his faith of the Lord Jesus. I never understood how being Santa and celebrating the birth of Christ could hold the same space in someone's life until I met Charlie. He lived it well. Gena, Jenny, Chuck and the extended McLendon family, my heart goes out to you in your time of sorrow. I pray you will sense the Lord's comfort through the precious memories you shared together.

“ Ernest has known Charles and his family most of his life. However we together along with our son, Shea, shared some stories with Charles for Charles became our medical insurance agent for many years. Their were many wonderful discussions about religion, family, and a subject meaningful to us - traumatic brain injury. Charles and Shea both had had a history with TBI. Charles didn't let TBI stop him one bit from becoming a successful individual in ALL that he did. Charles shared some great and humorous Santa stories.

Gina and family, we are deeply sorrowful for your grief and rejoicing with the hope we all get to see "Santa" again in his NEW Santa suit in our heavenly home.

Sending our thoughts and prayers with "HIS Love".

“ I came to know Charles several years ago, getting his hair ready for his “Santa” visits! I always enjoyed my time with him, he was full of knowledge, an expert on many subjects! He always referred to me as “the miracle on Monticello street”! That was the location I work on! I am saddened by the loss of such a fine person! My prayers go out to the family, may you be comforted by his memories!

“ I've had the pleasure of knowing the Mclendon family since high school. Such a sweet family.I remember meeting Charles when I was first married he gave me some good advice in child rearing.He said to me remember you can't teach a child they learn from what you do.That always stuck with me.He was such a kind and sweet soul and the most beautiful santa I had ever met. My heart breaks for Ms Gina and their family. Prayers and hugs for all of them.

“ My sincerest condolences to the family. I remember Charles coming over to the house to practice with my dad. He had a beautiful voice. To this day I still remember his warm up routine and how I would fall asleep to his voice when I was a little girl when we live on South Hicks Circle. He will be missed and remembered.

“ Charles was one of the most brilliant students that I had the pleasure with which to work. When Charles was in high school, he won first place in vocal competition. Charles also won first place in speaking and won third in the nation in speaking. Charles had a great personality and will be missed. Rest in peace.
