I joined the Atlanta Fire Department in 1980 and was assigned to Station 12 in Little Five Points. George was the first person I met on the FD when I walked into the door. I can't repeat what he first said to me but he latched on to me at that moment and never let go. I think new blood in the fire station was energizing to the then veteran firefighter. He teased me, trained me, embraced me in his own way and molded me into a true firefighter despite all the "noise". I am grateful for my time of service with him. Rest in peace brother. I will miss you.
