“ Grady Leon Mullins and I spent many times together in the woods hunting, fishing and camping. He taught me how to build a tree stand, how to skin a trout, and how to field dress a deer. I learned much from him about the founding of our country, the men, the documents and their importance.

He and I spent a lot of time together on long road trips, around campfires, in tents, and some fishing and canoeing and most of all in his welcoming home. These activities always included time for lively discussions about things that matter.

We particularly enjoyed reminiscing about his old home place on HWY 53 Jasper, GA where he grew up as a simple farm boy advantaged with an intelligent providing father, loving mother and eleven siblings of which Grady was the baby of the family. He went off to World War II as soon as his age permitted, Two brothers were already in the fight. All three made it back.

I picked a good man to admire and he picked a good wife, Francis Mullins. They formed a tight and loving bond which gave them rewards and peace throughout Grady's long latter life. They married young enough to love and lived long enough afterward to grow in their respect and dependence on each other.

I believe Grady left this earth at peace with himself and appreciative of the opportunity for the life given him -- all the hardships, the rewards, and the friends along the way.

Grady, your passing goes as a huge marker on the wall of my lifetime. You may be gone but I still remain your faithful student.
