“ Living on the ranch was starting to get boring then you showed up and all that changed. At first we got along like matches and gasoline and I think we almost broke that West Texas town. That experience created a bond that distance couldn't break. Rest in peace brother.

“ You were my cousin. One of the best might I add. It's never gonna be the same without you. I always looked forward to seeing you, chilling with you and even having a drink with you at family functions. You always made me laugh and you were the best with my kiddos. I know they loved you lots. You're a person no one can forget. I love you Randal. So much. Until we meet again. R.I.P cousin.
