“ My apologies that this post is ten years late as I am just now seeing it. I grew up in the house across the street from Mr. Scott. He was without question one of the heroes of my childhood. Always kind to myself and the other kids, always supported whatever goofy fundraiser I was asking for money for, etc. These are the kind of people that made my growing up so rich. I've lost touch with Mrs. Scott, Walker, Wesley and Marie, but I hope you are all well.
